(3) Provision shall be made for preventing persons apparently under the age of 16 years, whilst being conveyed to or from court or whilst waiting before or after their attendance in court, from association with adults charged with or convicted of any offence other than an offence with which the person apparently under the age of 16 years is jointly charged or convicted.

(2) Where a person apparently under the age of 16 years, having been apprehended, is not released under subsection (1), the officer of police shall cause him to be detained at a Reformatory and Industrial School until he can be brought before a juvenile court, unless the officer certifies

(2) It shall not be obligatory on the court to commit a young person under subsection (1) if the court certifies that he is of so unruly a character that he cannot safely be so committed or that he is of so depraved a character that he is not a fit person to be so detained.

(3) A commitment under this section may be varied or, in the case of a young person who proves to be of so unruly a character that he cannot be safely detained in such custody or to be of so depraved a character that he is not a fit person to be so detained, revoked by any court acting in or for the place in or for which the court which made the order acted; and where it is revoked the young person may be committed to prison.

PART IV

Proceedings in Juvenile Courts

7. Sections 8 and 9 shall not render punishable for an offence any child who is not, in the opinion of the court, above the age of 11 years and of sufficient capacity to commit crime.

8. (1) Where a child or young person is brought before a juvenile court for any offence, it shall be the duty of the court as soon as possible to explain to him in simple language the substance of the alleged offence.

(2) Where a child is brought before a juvenile court for any offence other than homicide, the case shall be finally disposed of in such court, and it shall not be necessary to ask the parent whether he consents that the child be dealt with in the juvenile court.

(3) Where a young person is brought before a juvenile court for an indictable offence other than homicide, and the court becomes satisfied at any time during the hearing of the case that it is expedient to deal with it summarily, the court shall put to the young person the following or a similar question, telling him that he may consult his parent or guardian before replying—

“ Do you wish to be tried by this court or by a jury? ” and the court shall explain to the young person and to his parent or guardian the meaning of being so tried and the place where the trial would be held.

(4) After explaining the substance of the alleged offence, the court shall ask the child or young person (except in cases where the young person does not wish to be tried in the juvenile court) whether he admits the offence.

(5) Where the child or young person does not admit the offence, the court shall then hear the evidence of the witnesses in support thereof.

(6) At the close of the evidence-in-chief of each such witness, the court shall ask the child or young person or, if it sees fit, the child's parent or guardian, whether he wishes to put any questions to the witness.

(7) If the child or young person instead of asking questions wishes to make a statement he shall be allowed to do so and the court may put to the child or young person such questions as may be necessary to explain anything in the statement of the child or young person.

(8) It shall be the duty of the court to put to the witnesses such questions as appear to be necessary.

(9) Where it appears to the court that a prima facie case is made out, the evidence of any witnesses for the defence shall be heard and the child or young person shall be allowed to give evidence or to make any statement.

(3) For the purpose of obtaining such information or for special medical examination or observation the court may from time to time remand the child or young person on bail or in custody.

(4) Where the child or young person admits the offence or the court is satisfied that it is proved and the court decides that a remand is necessary for purposes of enquiry or observation, the court may cause an entry to be made in the court register that the charge is proved and that the child or young person has been remanded.

(5) The court before which a child or young person so remanded is brought may, without further proof of the commission of the offence, make any order in respect of the child or young person which could have been made by the court which so remanded the child or young person.

(6) Any child or young person charged with an indictable offence and tried by a juvenile court under section 8 may, in lieu of or in addition to any other punishment be sentenced to pay a fine of forty-eight dollars or, if a young person, to imprisonment for three months and, if the child or young person is a male, the court may, in its discretion, either in lieu of or in addition to any other punishment, order such child or young person to be privately whipped under section 62 of the Magistrates Jurisdiction and Procedure Act.

Cap. 116

(7) Where a child or young person is charged with any offence, other than homicide, and the court is satisfied that the charge is proved, the court, without proceeding to the conviction of the offender, may reprimand and discharge the offender or may make an order discharging the offender conditionally on his entering into a recognisance, with or without sureties, to be of good behaviour and to appear for conviction and sentence when called upon at any time during such period, not exceeding three years, as may be specified in the order.

(8) An order made under subsection (7) shall, for the purpose of revesting or restoring stolen property and of enabling the court to make orders as to the restitution or delivery of property to the owner and as to the payment of money upon or in connection with such restitution or delivery, have the like effect as a conviction.

10. (1) Where the court before which an offender is bound by his recognisance under this Act to appear for conviction or sentence or any court is satisfied by information on oath that the offender has failed to observe any of the conditions of his recognisance, it may issue a warrant for his apprehension or may, if it thinks fit, instead of issuing a warrant in the first instance, issue a summons to the offender and his sureties, if any, requiring him or them to attend at such court and at such time as may be specified in the summons.

Failing to observe conditions of recognisance.

(2) The offender, when apprehended, shall, if not brought forthwith before the court before which he is bound by his recognisance to appear for conviction or sentence, be brought before a court.

(3) The court before which an offender on apprehension is brought or before which he appears in pursuance of summons issued in pursuance of subsection (1) may, if it is not the court before which he is bound by his recognisance to appear for conviction or sentence, remand him to custody or on bail until he can be brought before the last-mentioned court.

(4) A court before which a person is bound by his recognisance to appear for conviction and sentence, on being satisfied that he has failed to observe any condition of his recognisance, may forthwith, without any further proof of his guilt, deal with him as for the original offence.

12. (2) Where a child or young person is charged with any offence, the court may order his parent or guardian to give security for his good behaviour.

(3) Where a court thinks that a charge against a child or young person is proved, the court may make an order on the parent or guardian under this section for the payment of damages or costs or requiring him to give security for good behaviour, without proceeding to the conviction of the child or young person.

(4) An order under this section may be made against a parent or guardian who, having been required to attend, has failed to do so, but except in such a case, no such order shall be made without giving the parent or guardian an opportunity of being heard.

(5) Any sums imposed and ordered to be paid by a parent or guardian under this section or on forfeiture of any such security may be recovered from him by distress or imprisonment in like manner as if the order had been made on the conviction of the parent or guardian of the offence with which the child or young person was charged.
